Dear Pavel,

thank you very much for review of our patch.

You're great man if you was able to backport such huge patches correctly.

However I would note that main part of time during release takes not backport of patches, but its careful testing.

In past we have released test kernels, however nobody used it until it was released in stable branch.

Our users hates node reboots, and usually they prefer to wait until someone will check the new kernel.

Thank you,
Vasily Averin
