

---

Subject: Re: vzkernel-3.10.0-x releases stopped since Sept?

Posted by TomB on Mon, 03 Dec 2018 19:58:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There are also community users who use this technology for different projects..

Virtuozzo only gets positive name recognition by tackling this and publishing stable releases, including security updates. The use of OpenVZ and therefore also Virtuozzo will only decrease, while the product is good and powerful!

Compare it with the competitors. OpenVZ integration/support has been removed from many products.

I think that more priority should be given to OVZ7. Still the best solution for containers and I do not intend to use LXC or Proxmox

---