<https://src.openvz.org/projects/OVZT> is actual repository with template sources.
One should build template RPM from these sources and install it on the node.

BTW, sources are open your pull requests are welcome!

Is there any documentation on creating source templates, and building templates out of sources?
I would love to contribute, as I've just been building templates by hand without using sources.

I've noticed others doing the same.
