Subject: Re: Install openvz remotely, NIC
Posted by kir on Wed, 21 Dec 2005 08:30:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

First of all, you can try to look your NIC up in the HCL.

Second, you'd install, not upgrade your kernel, so you have both OpenVZ and Fedora kernels in your boot menu. If the server becomes inaccessible after a reboot, ask the stuff of your colo provider to use the server's console to reboot it and select Fedora kernel from the boot menu.