ok thanks, downloaded cwgyin and still cant get it to work. Do i need to create the ssh from within cwgyin?

I am thinking that the centos package i am using ass a template does not have the packages needed to be able to run what is required. Will have a scout around.

and regarding reading that wiki page. I have read it and followed the instructions all the way through the wiki (which were execllent btw) but it still does not work. That page you say to look at does not give clear enough instructions (at least for someone like me) on how to resolve this issue.
