On Thu, 21 Sep 2006, Nick Piggin wrote:

> If it wasn't clear was talking specifically about the hooks for page > tracking rather than the whole patchset. If anybody wants such page > tracking infrastructure in the kernel, then this (as opposed to the > huge beancounters stuff) is what it should look like.

Could you point to the patch and a description for what is meant here by page tracking (did not see that in the patch, maybe I could not find it)?
If these are just statistics then we likely already have them.