

---

Subject: Re: Remove logmessage when entering VE

Posted by dev on Mon, 09 Oct 2006 16:57:05 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Mmm, I can't see many usecases... can you describe how you use it?
usually higher log levels are needed for debugging only...

I suppose `CONSOLE_LEVEL` option can be added.
Care to make a patch?

Thanks,
Kirill

```
> Well, well.
> Yes, I have
> LOG_LEVEL=9
>
> So loglevel is for console/terminal and logfile.
> I want information in my logfile, but a quiet console.
>
> Regards, > Kristian.
>
> On Monday den 9. October 2006 15:01, Kirill Korotaev wrote:
>
>> Kristian,
>>
>> have you raised your default vzctl loglevel?
>> if so, then dim@ is right. you are using verbose mode.
>> and the shifted command line should be fixed then.
>>
>> Thanks,
>> Kirill
>>
>>
>>>> Hi list,
>>>>
>>>> Patch removing logmessage "Open /dev/pts/X"
>>>>
>>>> from src/enter.c when entering VE
>>>>
>>>> Before:
>>>> # vzctl enter 1010
>>>> entered into VE 1010
>>>> Open /dev/pts/0
>>>>      root@dev-test2:/#
>>>>
>>>> After:
```

```
>>>># vzctl enter 1010
>>>>entered into VE 1010
>>>>root@dev-test2:/#
>>>
>>>This is useful debug message, why to remove it?
>>>If the problem is that the next line is shifted, then we need another >>>fix.
>>>
>>>
>>>>Best regards,
>>>>Kristian Høgh
>>>>Segtel A/S
>>
```

---