Subject: Re: Remove logmessage when entering VE
Posted by dev on Mon, 09 Oct 2006 16:57:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Mmm, I can't see many usecases... can you describe how you use it?
usually higher log levels are needed for debugging only...

I suppose CONSOLE_LEVEL option can be added.
Care to make a patch?

Thanks,
Kirill

> Well, well.
> Yes, I have
> LOG_LEVEL=9
>
> So loglevel is for console/terminal and logfile.
> I want information in my logfile, but a quiet console.
>
> Regards, > Kristian.
>
> On Monday den 9. October 2006 15:01, Kirill Korotaev wrote:
>
>>Kristian,
>>
>>have you raised your default vzctl loglevel?
>>if so, then dim@ is right. you are using verbose mode.
>>and the shifted command line should be fixed then.
>>
>>Thanks,
>>Kirill
>>
>>
>>>>Hi list,
>>>>
>>>>Patch removing logmessage "Open /dev/pts/X"
>>>
>>>>from src/enter.c when entering VE
>>>
>>>>Before:
>>>># vzctl enter 1010
>>>>entered into VE 1010
>>>>Open /dev/pts/0
>>>>   root@dev-test2:/#
>>>>
>>>>After:

>>>># vzctl enter 1010
>>>>entered into VE 1010
>>>>root@dev-test2:/#
>>>
>>>This is useful debug message, why to remove it?
>>>If the problem is that the next line is shifted, then we need another >>>fix.
>>>
>>>
>>>>Best regards,
>>>>Kristian Høgh
>>>>Segtel A/S
>>