Thanks a lot for the fast and clear information!
The extra hints are usefull for the future.

However, my probem is, that I don't get PID information when I use: vzpid 102

This is the output after this command:
Pid   VEID   Name

So empty under the heading as you can see and therefore I can't investigate further because vzpid gives no information about the PID that a VE uses.

The problem is in my case vzpid that seems not working as it should be.
