Subject: Re: post start host side configuration for a vps
Posted by ajneil on Wed, 29 Nov 2006 16:08:49 GMT

On 11/29/06, Kir Kolyshkin <kir@openvz.org> wrote:
>
> Vasily Tarasov wrote:
> > Alastair Neil wrote:
> >
> >> I would like to have some directories mounted within a VPS from the > >> host node. I can do this using a bind mount from the host, however I > >> have not found any configurable way to achieve this automatically.
> >> Ideally these mounts should be mounted before the VPS starts any > >> services. Anyone have any suggestions?
> >>
> > You can create script /etc/vz/conf/101.mount
> > This script will be executed before VE start, so you can add mounts > there.
> >
> > Typical content of 101.mount:
> > #! /bin/sh
> > mount -n -o bind,ro /shared/directory /vz/root/101/shared
> >
> More details are in OpenVZ User's Guide, around page 100 or so.
> The guide itself is at http://download.openvz.org/doc/ (in case you > missed it).
>
> Regards,
>   Kir.
>

Ahh I see it it is on page 88 in the pdf I have. Thanks for the pointer.