Subject: Re: openvz initscript for gentoo

Posted by hollow on Sun, 03 Dec 2006 08:40:23 GMT

On Wednesday 22 November 2006 00:10, Kir Kolyshkin wrote:
> I had problems using OpenVZ on my Gentoo notebook. Each time I (or > ifplugd) stop or restart networking, OpenVZ stops. I think it is not > what we want.
>
> The problem is initscript contains "need net". In fact OpenVZ should > work fine without networking.
>
> While looking at the bug, I found another one -- OpenVZ modules should > be loaded after iptables, not before! Perhaps this bug was invisible > since iptables start before networking, and 'need net' statement was > preferred to 'before iptables' statement.
>
> The below patch is a solution to both problems. Note that iptables is > not mentioned since iptables initscript itself has 'before net' so the > proper order is maintained.
>
> Please review.

looks ok to me, please commit