Subject: Re: Vzsplit question
Posted by TheWiseOne on Tue, 12 Dec 2006 01:04:53 GMT

Romeo Theriault wrote:
> Hello, I think I'm not entirely understanding how vzsplit works.
>
> I want to split my server up into 20 ve's. So I ran this:
>
> vzsplit -n 20 -f vps.mytest
>
> Which creates the appropriate file. Which I use as my template when creating > new VE's. Great.
>
> But when I run vzcalc on one of the ve's that I've created with the template > made with vzsplit, this is what it shows:
>
> [root@vz ~]# vzcalc 101
> Resource   Current(%) Promised(%) Max(%)
> Memory   0.28   20.45   22.46
>

Try vzsplit with "-s 0", the regular way it takes swap into account which is generally a bad idea.

Regards,
Matt