As other VZ customers and I know "coming soon" means we'll see a 2.7 beta in November and maybe a release in December, I feel so teased

What kind of scalability issues are you seeing resolved by using the 2.6 kernel? I am figuring the O(1) scheduler is a huge improvement has many VPS hosts have 2000+ running processes causing a load of 1-2 on an otherwise idle server just for system CPU, is that correct as to what you are seeing?
