Hi,

It's similar to the relationship between Fedora and RedHat. OVZ being the testbed for new technologies for more advanced users, and VZ being the commercial, stable product with all the frills including full support and additional tools.

See http://openvz.org/support

Forrest Aldrich wrote:
> I didn't see this in the FAQ (surprisingly)...
>
> What is the difference and/or relationship of OpenVZ and Virtuozzo?
>
>
> _F
>
--
Regards,

Andrew Cranson
Transnexis Hosting
www.transnexis.com

ICQ: 161813538
MSN: andrew@transnexis.com
AIM: cransona

 >>> Virtuozzo Virtual Private Servers now available from $24.95/mo! US or UK based. Ask me for details. <<<