I was installing openvz via HyperVM but I have noticed that it is the same when I like to do it via command line.

(yum clean all is performed as you can see, server is clean after installation centos 5.8 x64)

Are the opensv mirrors out of sync? I can install without the problem other Centos packages.

A temporary solution is to do wget on needed packages and install them using rpm -UVh

It worked for me but repo is not working still.

I had the same problem and the solution for me was to remove the existing installed vzctl and install ploop and vzctl manually with the rpm, everything worked fine after that.
