
Subject: Re: Re: [PATCH] usb: Fixup usb so it uses struct pid
Posted by Kirill Korotaev on Tue, 12 Sep 2006 14:49:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> Pete Zaitcev <zaitcev@redhat.com> writes:

>>> Holding a reference >>>to a struct pid avoid that problem, and paves the way >>>for implementing a pid namespace.
>>
>>That may be useful.
>>
>>The patch itself seems straightforward if we can trust your struct >>pid thingies. If OpenVZ people approve, I don't mind.
>
>
> So far I haven't seen any complaints on that score. None from > the mainstream kernel folks the vserver guys or the OpenVz guys.
> struct pid itself is in 2.6.18, performing this same function for > proc, but not all of the helper functions have made it beyond -mm > yet. Most of the rest should make it into 2.6.19.
at this stage these patches look fine.

Thanks,
Kirill
