Hello. I have searched but not found any documentation. Is it possible to access SLIP (serial line) interfaces within a container? Regards.

Hi,
sorry for late reply...
don't know much about SLIP, but as I understood you have to check how to give access to devices for CT check man vzctl for --devices, --pci_add. probably you will also need to check --capability option.

but I'm not sure that with openvz you can do what you want...
