I have been pushing the envelope recently and decide to see what I could really load inside of VMware, so why not more Virtualization software.

Here is a screenshot of OpenVZ running inside of VMware workstation:

I just finished it today and wanted to share the screenshot. I will be doing a complete write up on my blog at later this week: <http://x86Virtualization.com>

Next I need to figure out the networking, see how many IP's I can get assigned from my router to my laptop for all of the VM's.

Looking for any suggestions for a next project,
