I was just about to ask if anyone was experiencing problems with Ext3 and Raid 10 when I saw there was a new kernel today and it looks like there are Ext3 fixes in it - a lot of them. Here's hoping my problems go away.

What has been happening is the things seem to run fine and then all of a sudden my /vz mount goes read only and when I run e2fsck to fix it it runs into a lot of errors. Anyone else seeing this and does the latest kernel make it go away?
