Hi, guys.

We're coming up to the deadline of proposals submissions for OLS2008 and I noticed, that we didn't decide whether we're going to make some summary report about the namespaces/cgroups development status.

I think it worth making this one.

Besides, we can send a request for a mini-summit.

Thanks,
Pavel

Hi, Pavel,

Sounds like a good idea to me.

OK. Let's work on an abstract.

Fine :) Actually the main question is - who will be responsible for this talk. If nobody objects I can take care of it ;)

By the way, may be it is better to request a BOF rather than mini-summit to have a presentation of our work for a "outside" world...

Den

Or both. All three. BOF for sort of a containers install-fest/tutorial, paper for a more formal how it's implemented, and finally a mini-summit for future planning.

Guess we can have both. BOF format is a bit different (not too much time, more people), so better to have mini-summit first.

BTW does anybody knows whether the Kernel Summit will be "attached" to OLS this year?

Yes, and OLS has explicitly asked for proposals to mini-summits

I thought it was going to be held in Portland this year.
