Hello everybody!

For the third time, I arranged a "Workshop on Virtualization Technologies" in cooperation with the Linuxhotel in Essen, Germany.

Our goal is, to provide developers of Open Source Software related to virtualization, and interested, skilled administrators with the possibility to come together for a weekend to work on their projects, exchange experiences and play around with the technology.

The Linuxhotel as a location delivers a great, relaxed atmosphere and a perfect infrastructure to enable carefree working.

Details - currently in German only - here:

<https://wiki.villa-vogelsang.de/doku.php?id=virtualisierung:start>

It's no problems to attend the workshop if you're not speaking german - please let me know if you're interested, and I'll give you more info on the details - basically it is, if you are an OpenSource developer in a virtualization related field, you can attend for free, otherwise you have to pay a flat fee of 135 Euros.

We're looking for sponsors to see if we can get to reimburse travel costs for the Open Source developers.

I'd be glad to see you there!

Registration will be by first come-first serve principle - the event will be limited to 20 Persons.
