OpenVz Community,

We're proud to announce Spry's newest brand has launched, with OpenVZ as our backend. Please check us out at http://www.vpslink.com/ For a limited time we'll be offering OpenVZ accounts for less than $50 yearly.

We're very excited to have OpenVZ as our backend, and look forward to the continued success of the platform.

Would be great if you will add something like "Powered by OpenVZ" button with the link back to openvz.org org to your site, just to show how you appreciate OpenVZ.

I have noticed you put the Virtuozzo logo to your page -- I doubt this is the right thing to do if you are not using Virtuozzo.

Kir,

Thanks for pointing this out. I'll have the graphics guys get on this first thing next week.

Apparently the other problem is you are referring to OpenVZ as OpenVirtuozzo, at the http://www.vpslink.com/vps-hosting/ page.

By the way, if you are commercial company, will you support the idea of hosting a mirror of OpenVZ download site?

Kir,

We'd be happy to setup a mirror for you. Do you think a VPS account is OK for now, or do you require a full dedicated to start? Please let us know if there is more we can do to help!

A VPS would be just fine. Currently the amount of disk space needed is about 10 gigs, and the monthly traffic from the main download.openvz.org site is below 200GB/month (should be lower for a mirror).

Actually, I would be happy if you just set up something like openvz.yourdomain.com with http and ftp access, and regular rsyncing of download.openvz.org. I can definitely set it up as well myself.
