Hi guys

As we all know that openvz is using operating system level virtualization. After googling around reading the datasheet and all the available information on VMWare website I could not manage to know which virtualization technique VMWare server is using. Is it using full virtualization (hypervisor). anyone knows any place where I can find the software and the vz technique e.g openvz os-level

Best regards