Sometime last year it was mentioned that there would be work on getting the ploop into the main Linux kernel.

So far I can tell it now depends on a openvz kernel.

Any progress or thoughts about that?