You might check the Quick Install guide (http://wiki.openvz.org/Quick_installation)... as there are a few things to put in the sysctl.conf file. Why you missed at the least, that one parameter, I'm not sure... so there may be others you are missing that is causing the problem.

NATing isn't something you usually do unless you don't have public IPs... so just because you got half of it working the way you didn't doesn't mean that actually fixes anything.
