So I woke up this morning and sure enough, the VPS is not pingable anymore. I did the same thing again and now the the IP connects to the VPS. Is there any way of associating those IPs with my server?

So are you saying that in all the VPS's that I create, I'll have to change the network from venet to veth and then assign the necessary broadcast and gateway info? Do I need to change the host node's device from venet to veth as well?
