Subject: Re: fsck of simfs
Posted by Rene Dokbua on Wed, 29 Aug 2012 07:41:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks everybody. Hm, that's a bit of a bummer.

Would using ploop fs change that? (I mean, I understand it won't fix the present problem but for the future)

On Wed, Aug 29, 2012 at 2:06 PM, Vasily Averin <vvs@parallels.com> wrote:

> Dear Rene,
>
> simfs is a proxy-filesystem.
> you need to stop all containers and check file-system on underlying device > (ext4 on /vz ?)
>
> thank you,
> Vasily Averin
>
> On 08/29/2012 10:37 AM, Rene C. wrote:
> >
> > I suspect there may be some filesystem corruption in a VE. Is it > possible to fsck the simfs filesystem for a single container somehow, or do > I need to stop all containers on the hardware node partition partition > holding the simfs in order to check the filesystem?