Ok, I'll wait

Also, there's a recursive dependency with the vzctl and vzctl-lib as well.

vzctl complains that the older version vzctl-lib requires the older versoin and such. Kind of painful, I'd have to completely uninstall both vzctl and vzctl-lib before installing the new one. The -U switch doesn't seem to fix that.

The only way I could find to get it to install is to do:

`rpm -Uvh vzctl*` (it is a good idea to put the new vzctl rpm's in their own directory before doing that).
