
Subject: Re: Which Hardware and OS is best for OpenVZ?

Posted by Vasily Tarasov on Tue, 26 Dec 2006 07:05:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:OK - why is it that the 64 bit OS problems won't be fixed soon.

Perhaps, because OpenVZ template management has to be fully reworked...
You can search in forum and at bugzilla for more information.

Quote:And I'm still wondering which OS is best to get started quick that is most compatible?

Probably, I can't say exactly... I was using OpenVZ on CentOS, Debian, Gentoo and never had OS-specific problems. So, may be somebody else here will suggest you reasonable answer. I'm still sure, that any rpm-based distribution is equally easy to start using OpenVZ. Further more, may be this results help you:

http://forum.openvz.org/index.php?t=tree&goto=189&pl_view=1&#msg_189

Vasily.
