Subject: Slackware 10.2 template, would pay for it

If someone has already made a template for OpenVZ for Slackware 10.2, where would I find it?

If not, I would be willing to pay something like $20 for someone to make one available as a contribution on the site. It'd have to be very slim and work well, like the other templates available here.

If there's already a fund for developers, let me know and I'll pitch the money in there.

I will throw 100$ towards a working slackware template. Someone do it and make an easy 120$.

mmm... do you have some minimal fresh installation somewhere and can give me an access?
