Hi there,

during the next days the server migration from 4 heavily loaded machines to a box with some 10 containers will be accomplished. I'd to work out some things differently than I was used to, but in the end I got most of it running.

One clear exception so far: NFSv4 file server insive a VE.

So my question here, is there any work ongoing to make the kernel server usable inside a VE? Or does anyone know about a user space server project implementing kerberized NFSv4?

Regards,
- lars.

PS: Pending is the ISDN subsystem (Asterisk, Fax-Mail Gateway, Voicemail).
