Hi!

I am trying to migrate a VM from one remote node to another one but invoking vzmigrate command from third machine (front-end). Something like [front-end]$ ssh <remote_host_1> sudo /usr/sbin/vzmigrate --online
<remote_host_2><CTID>
But I am getting the following error when executing the command below as unprivileged user with permissions in /etc/sudoers file to run /usr/sbin/vz* scripts:
[front-end]$ ssh <remote_host_1> sudo /usr/sbin/vzmigrate --online
<remote_host_2><CTID>
Warning: Permanently added 'remote_hostname_1,remote_host_IP_1' (RSA) to the list of known hosts.
Starting online migration of CT <CTID> to <remote_host_2> /usr/sbin/vzmigrate: line 312: vzctl: command not found
Error: Can't perform online migration of a stopped container

In 312 line of/usr/sbin/vzmigrate file thevzctl is invoked as
[...]
get_status $($VZCTL status $VEID)

and VZCTL is defined in the beginning of that file as VZCTL=vzctl

I wonder if there is any reason to define VZCTL as vzctl but not with absolute path to it (i.e. /usr/sbin/vzctl)?

Adding /usr/sbin to $PATH in ~oneadmin/.bashrc making the following command works
$ ssh <remote_hosts_1[2]>"which vzctl"
Warning: Permanently added 'remote_hostname_1[2],remote_host_IP_1' (RSA) to the list of known hosts.
/usr/sbin/vzctl

but vzmigrate still fails with the error message listed above.

Any thoughts,hints,ideas on that issue?

Thanks in advance,
Nikolay.

Hello.

You can define LC_ENV in env_keep variable in sudoers file. In this case root PATH will be saved during sudo-session.

The issue you are describing is believed to be fixed in vzctl 3.0.26.3 which was released 2 days ago :)

updating vzctl to 3.0.26.3-1 fixes the described issue.
Thanks!

Nikolay.

Dear Ekaterina,

Thanks for a hint!

Nikolay.

Hi,

see http://git.openvz.org/?p=vzctl;a=commit;h=bfa856a9e440d536a4f11e33fe9748863cc85708

or/and upgrade to vzctl 3.0.26.2

see http://wiki.openvz.org/Download/vzctl/3.0.26.3

Bye,
 Thorsten

Hi Thorsten,

I've already update vzctl to 3.0.26.3 and it fixed my problem.

Anyway that for reply!
Nikolay.
